Systems Developer – Quantitative Equity
Connor, Clark & Lunn Financial Group

We are a special software team embedded in a top performing quantitative equity fund that manages over $20 billion in financial assets. This is a fantastic opportunity in the exciting intersection of finance and technology where investment decisions are made using technology. Quantitative equity funds use programmed investment strategies and as a result, our developers are crucial to its success.

The team is headquartered and deeply rooted in West Coast Vancouver. We place high value on maintaining an entrepreneurial spirit and creating a culture where each of us has opportunities to succeed.

What You’ll Be Doing

Developers play an essential role through innovative technologies: machine learning, cloud computing, optimization engines, non-traditional high performance databases, custom applications and data visualization. You own the entire software life cycle:

- Collaborate with portfolio managers, analysts and researchers to analyze interesting financial problems.
- Design, plan and implement solutions in an entrepreneurial spirit.
- Keep investment systems running smoothly through enhancements and support.

About You

- Programming Knowledge – you have an undergraduate, graduate, or post-graduate degree in a computer-related field OR exceptional programming skills gained through your work experience.
- Deeply Analytical – you possess an analytical mind and enjoy mental challenges. An ability to perform deep thoughtful analysis is required for this role.
- Passion for Technology – we work with several programming languages (Kdb+/Q, Python, R, Java, C#, Angular/Typescript) and upfront knowledge is not required. If you are passionate about technology, learning new languages and concepts is natural and fun.
- Collaborative Communication – you have a collaborative spirit that helps you to work well with others and you communicate effectively.
- Interest in Investment Management – this is key. Your interest will help you learn about our complex domain.
